Silks at 69c

Worth $1.00 to $1.50 a yard

THE SILK buyer has just returned from New York City, and these silks, considered from the view points of both value and quality, are decidedly his most notable purchase.

There is quite a range of Foulards, embracing the popular blue and white, brown and white and black and white effects, mostly in the fashionable small polka dots, a standard $1.00-a-yard grade.

There are also black and white checked Louisines, certainly worth no less. Persian Brocades are also well represented, a fine soft silk, usually retailed at $1.50 a yard. Striped and Plaid Taffetas embrace such popular colorings as black with helio-trope or cardinal red and turquois with white.

Among the Louisines are shot effects in white and cardinal; also prettily colored stripes; value fully $1.25 a yard.

Any of the above 69c a yard

While this would be a low price for good silks, even in poor styles, the main point to consider is that every yard shown is new-desirably new in both texture and coloring.

It is said by people in a position to know that Jerry Gates does not own the place at Kentucky and Senate avenues. They say that Denny O'Brien, whose license was revoked, owing to his persistent violation of the law, is the real owner of the place, but the license is issued to Gates. Practically all of the downtown saloons were open, but only in a few places were drinks sold in the licensed barrooms. There seems to be an understanding of some kind between the police and the saloon keepers that as long as drinks are not sold in the licensed rooms on Sundays or after hours no arrests will be made. Rooms in the rear of the bar and separated from it only by a curtain in many cases are used as parrooms for the Sunday trade.

Women are scarce around the Savoy, Burkhardt and Gates places. Until the expose printed in the Journal several weeks ago, it was common to see women standing at the bar drinking with men on Sundays. A frequenter of Burkhardt's, commenting upon the absence of women in the place, said it was all due to "those d-d report-

BREEZY COUNCIL SESSION PREDICTED FOR TO-NIGHT

URGED NEW LIGHTING CONTRACT

Meeting-Brewery License Ordinance and Others.

This evening's meeting of the City Council promises to be one of more than ordinary ably four important ordinances, which have all aroused much discussion, will be reported favorably by the committees to which they were referred. These are the ordinance embodying the city's new lighting contract with the Indianapolis Light and Power Company for the ten years beginning April 1, 1905; the ordinance taxing all breweries and brewery agencies operating in the city $1,000 annualy; Councilman Murray's "huckster" ordinance. raising the license fees of peddlers and hucksters very considerably, and the ordinance appropriating the sum of $9,625 to the Board of Public Safety for the settle-ment of back salaries due firemen. The new lighting contract was awarded to the Indianapolis Light and Power Company on Feb. 24, and was sent to the Council for ratification at a special meeting shortly afterward. The contract, in the words of a city official, "is about as lengthy as the moral law," and the Council committee on contracts and franchises, to which it was referred, has had it under consideration since it was presented to the Council in printed form in the Council journal.

NO DECIDED OBJECTION. Because of the voluminous character of the contract the committee has had to take much time for its consideration, but has held only one meeting on the subject. No decided objection to the terms of the contract has developed, but a member of the committee stated yesterday that there are several points on which some members wish information before they decide to favor the unconditional approval of the

Another meeting of the committee on con-tracts and franchises will be held some time points will be cleared up, so that it is probable that the committee will report the ordinance favorably at this evening's Council meeting. The only thing that would prevent this desired action would be the raising of some objection or some obstacle not now foreseen.

The report that has been current that the contract must be ratified by the Council within a month after its award by the Board of Works, or by next Thursday, the 24th, was yesterday said by officials to be unfounded. The contract contains a provision that if the Council shall delay ratification longer than one month, the time of the commencement of the contract shall be postponed for a time beyond April 1, 1905, corresponding to the period in excess of a month that the Council shall delay its ac-

BREWERY TAX ORDINANCE.
